

HARTFORD HERALD

FRANK L. FELIX, Proprietor.
HEBER MATTHEWS, Editor.

WEDNESDAY, JANUARY 14

ANNOUNCEMENTS.

We are authorized to announce CHARLES E. FORD, of Fordville, as a candidate for the office of Circuit Court Clerk of Ohio county, subject to the action of the Democratic party.

STRAWBERRIES are now retailing in Louisville at three dollars per gallon. How many gallons, did you say?

MR. MEACHAM'S injunction suit and the way it was decided, reminds us of what the fly said to the wagon wheel.

How many lily white Republicans are there in Ohio county? Does the Hartford Herald belong to that class?

ROOSEVELT and Washington! Book-er, of course. Taking recent events into consideration, doesn't that sound all right?

INSTEAD of a political bee buzzing in Editor Thomas' bonnet, we are inclined to think it is a bat. Anyhow, it makes an awful racket.

If any great number of persons resolved at the beginning of the New Year, that they were going to pay and keep paid up, their subscriptions to THE HERALD, we have not yet discovered it.

EDITOR THOMAS says the people are falling over each other to keep up with him in his race for Governor. We noticed a man walking along behind him a few days ago who came very near slipping up on a banana peel.

MR. HARRY SOMMERS, the able and popular editor of the Elizabethtown News, will soon embark upon a European tour, covering all points of interest in the Old World. The Kentucky press unite in wishing genial Harry a pleasant trip and a safe return.

SIGNOR MARCONI, the noted inventor of wireless telegraphy, has fallen in love, it is said, with a young lady at Sydney, N. C., where he has been stationed. Her name is Miss Nina MacGillivray. We imagine that name would go tearing through the air like greased lightning.

A BUSINESS meeting of the Kentucky Press Association will be held in Louisville on the 27th of the present month. This sound sensible and really what the Association should be at every meeting. Topics of practical interest will be discussed and the affair will no doubt be of much profit to all who attend.

NOW THAT Mr. Meacham's little injunction suit has been quietly set aside upon the charge of the purpose of obliation, where the first political breeze will blow it over, let the Democracy of Kentucky take fresh courage and go forward at the same rapid gait it has been making ever since proceedings began. We are confident Charley will catch up with the band wagon before it has gone many squares.

THE Glasgow Times, agent the State Primary matter, invites the Hopkinsville Kentuckian to rise and tell what it knows. Editor Meacham, of the Kentuckian, says he knows much and has told some things, but is truthful enough not to say that he has told all he knows about the political grafts in his bailiwick. Like the ex-governing business, you know, it depends upon circumstances as to how much ought to be told. Doesn't it, Charley?

BEGINNING with his issue of Thursday, February 5, the Madisonville Graphic will print in serial form, the escape of Morgan and his men from the Columbus (Ohio) penitentiary in November, 1893. The story will be written by Capt. L. D. Hockersmith, one of Morgan's men, who figured in the escape. We are well acquainted with Capt. Hockersmith as a man of honor and veracity, and are confident that the Graphic's readers will be well entertained.

ACCORDING to the most available and reliable records, there were more than fifty thousand people killed by accident or calamity during the year 1902. This of course includes the Mount Pelee disaster. The number of injured cannot be approximately stated, but it is small compared to the list of the dead. There were several earthquakes and minor accidents whose death-dealing record is not available. It presents a record of instant death, however, that is terrible to contemplate.

ONE of the big Wall Street operators was interviewed recently on the financial situation. He said: "The only difficulty in the situation is the fact that there is not enough money in the country to transact the people's business." In 1896 we were told that we had money enough, and, although the amount of money has been largely increased since then, in these days of burning prosperity we are assured that "the only difficulty in the situation is the fact that there is not enough money in the country to transact the people's business."

"A GIRL who cannot make and bake bread, compound a pudding and wash and iron her own shirt-waist, is a fraud upon the young American womanhood," declared the Rev. Jenkin Lloyd Jones before the National Housewives Association at their annual meeting in New York last week. "And you mothers and housewives are to blame for the common feeling of your daughters against kitchen service," he continued. "The idea that kitchen work is menial must be corrected and the lessons must begin at home," said Rev. Jones. And who will say that the good man was not talking some of the soundest kind of good common sense?

In the Indianapolis affair, President Roosevelt has shown himself a negro sympathizer, heart and soul. He not only outraged the people of this little southern town by depriving them of mail facilities in refusing to appoint a postmaster to take the place of the negro woman, but set himself in a bad light before the whole people, many of his own party condemning his act. It developed that the negro postmistress had not been assaulted or mistreated. His act was precipitate and ill-advised. But his attitude serves one purpose very clearly. It shows the President up in his true light, and dispels any doubt as to his regard for the negro.

As a general thing, when a question that vitally concerns the people comes up for adjudication, and there seems to be danger of the people being robbed of their rights, said question is not left alone for the newspapers to argue. Men all over the country break into print to inveigh against the alleged wrong. Not so with the State Primary matter. The only ones to fight the State Primary decision have been a handful of newspapers, some of whose editors are known as political grafters of long standing. The venal grip becomes paralyzed when the matter is put in the hands of the people. It is strange that a number of private voters do not raise a row.

THE Hartford Republican, commenting on the Indianapolis affair, applauds President Roosevelt for depriving the people of a postmaster after the negro postmistress had resigned, and ends up by saying, "And still the Hartford Herald urges the negro that it is against his interest to vote the Republican ticket." We insist that it does the negro no good to vote the Republican ticket, and the Indianapolis incident does not disprove our contention. If President Roosevelt did right in appointing and upholding a negro postmistress, why don't the Republican leaders of Ohio county take up Albert Short and run him as their candidate for Circuit Court Clerk? If the Republicans of Kentucky think so much of the negro and regard not his color "when duty is well done," why don't they give him some recognition? Does he not deserve it for his political servitude?

LIKE A HOT POTATO.

In a recent issue of the Hartford Republican, after decanting upon what THE HERALD had to say about the negro and the Republican party, editor Thomas concluded:

Brother Matthews, will you please tell the colored men what your party will do for them in the office line, if they will vote for you? We will quote your answer next week.

Taking the gentleman at his word, we told him—not what the Democratic party will do for the negro for his vote, for it is not in the attitude to do anything for him in a political way, but—what we thought was the duty of the Republican party towards the negro, and invited him to tell the public what the Republican party had ever done for the negro in the last 35 years except to vote him. We hardly expected the Republican to undertake to answer this, but we did expect its editor to keep his word in regard to quoting our answer. Diligent search, however, failed to find a line in the next issue of the Republican either of quotation or comment. What does it mean? Does the Republican want to drop the negro suffrage question, or is the record of its party so vacuous in valorous deeds toward the negro voter that it really has nothing to say? What do the colored voters of Ohio county think of their white organ here at Hartford, anyhow?

A Well Developed Infant.

For the first nine months of 1902 the steel trust paid to the holders of its preferred and common stock the sum of $42,040,071.

Aside from this the steel trust paid 51 per cent. on its preferred stock. It also holds in its treasury the sum of $34,647,983, being the undivided balance of its profits for three-fourths of a year.

Does it not occur to the thinking man that this is one of the "infant industries" that is big enough to stand alone?

STRAIGHT OF THE MATTER

REGARDING THE INDIANOLA POSTOFFICE AFFAIR.

No Threats Made Against Minnie Cox, the Negro Postmistress.

BIG TOWN WITHOUT A POSTOFFICE.

A great furor has been created in the newspapers lately about the alleged mistreatment of the negro postmistress at Indianola, Miss. The facts are that this was mostly vicious rumor, which President Roosevelt took for facts, and his action in discontinuing the postoffice after Minnie Cox, the negro postmistress, had resigned, simply to punish the citizens who wanted the negro woman to resign, was the biggest outrage of the whole matter. Indianola is a town about the size of Hartford, has two banks, three newspapers, electric lights and a very progressive and intelligent citizenship. That these people should be compelled to go 25 miles to get their mail, is the result of Roosevelt's outrageous conduct. The following telegram explains the matter fully, and shows how a mountain has been made out of a mole hill:

INDIANOLA, MISS., Jan. 9.—In compliance with the request of Senator A. J. McLaurin, of Mississippi, for an official statement of the post-office trouble, Lawyer P. C. Chapman, on behalf of the town, forwarded the following to Mr. McLaurin at Washington to-day:

"About the first of October the citizens of Indianola had a meeting and appointed a committee of three to circulate a petition asking Minnie Cox, the negro postmistress, to resign. This petition was to be returned at a meeting of the citizens to be held a week later. This was circulated and was signed by a large number of citizens of Indianola.

"Wayne Cox, husband of Minnie Cox, on the evening of the second meeting, called at my office and said he desired to have me state to the mass-meeting that night, that he had discovered that the citizens of Indianola did not wish his wife to act as postmistress any longer, and he would therefore request that I read the inclosed resignation of his wife as postmistress to the mass-meeting that night, which resignation he delivered to me. The resignation was signed by his wife.

"The only request made in regard to the resignation was that his wife should have time to get her reports ready and get the office in shape so that she might have time with a perfect settlement of the affairs of the Government. He stated further that he had been a citizen of this county for years and that the white people were his friends and had always treated him properly, and that he and his wife did not wish to hold the office when a petition had been freely signed by the citizens of Indianola asking for her resignation.

NO THREATS MADE.

"This resignation was accepted, and the time named for the resignation to take effect was Jan. 1, 1903. I was present at both of the meetings and can state of my personal knowledge that no threats or intimidations were made by any party at these meetings, no committee was appointed to notify Minnie Cox and no official representatives from either of these meetings had any communication with Wayne Cox or the postmistress relative to her resignation.

"I can state further that I have not heard of any intimidation or threats made by any citizens of Indianola or Sunflower County against the postmistress. I can state further that the kind feeling exists between the citizens of Indianola and the postmistress, she being an intelligent negro and not wishing to retain the position of postmistress after this petition asking her to resign.

"There has not been any rough-and-tumble threatening of Minnie Cox or Wayne Cox, but on the other hand everything is quiet and peaceable and no excitement whatever in the town of Indianola, and we, the citizens of Indianola, are much surprised and shocked at the reports appearing in the different newspapers, there being no foundation for these reports and there being no facts stated in them as to threats, intimidations, etc.

HARDSHIP UPON THE TOWN.

"I especially ask that you, who have been so kind as to make inquiry into the matter, bend every energy to have our post-office reopened. It is a great hardship upon us. It affects the business of each and every one here, and it presents to the world a feature that causes criticism to be heaped upon one of the best elements of society in the South."

The writer is one of the most prominent lawyers in Mississippi, and a candidate for Circuit Judge.

Citizens here do not look with favor upon any compromise action such as reopening the post-office with Minnie Cox in charge until the expiration of her official term.

One Hundred Dollars a Box Is the value H. A. Tidale, Summertown, S. C., places on DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve. He says: "I had the piles for 30 years. I tried many doctors and medicines, but all failed except DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve. It cured me." Exonerated by Coroner.

COVINGTON, KY., Jan. 10.—Henry Dickens, aged seventeen, charged with the murder of his father, Henry Dickens, last Sunday night, was given a hearing before a Coroner's jury this morning. After being out five minutes, the jury returned a verdict of justifiable homicide and recommended his release.

The circumstances in the case are very unusual. Young Dickens led a blind brother around, and the two, by playing a violin and singing, supported the family. The boy's father came home intoxicated and became angry because the son did not make money enough. He started to hit his sick wife, who was in bed. The youth seized a poker and threw it, striking his father on the head. The skull was penetrated, and Dickens died the next day.

The Milk in the Cocanut.

The Lexington Democrat, commenting upon the State Primary, and Mr. Chas. Meacham's injunction suit, says:

"The attitude of Mr. Meacham in this fight on the committee in which he holds membership, is plain to all who have watched his course since Governor Beckham succeeded the late lamented Wm. Goebel. He presumed at that time that his position in the councils of the party entitled him to absolute control of the only State institution located in his section of Kentucky, the Western Asylum for the Insane. He started in with the idea that he was in possession of things there just as much so as did others of his class who are not located so far away from the seat of government they would control under the new regime. Just as it dawned on these political hang-ons, it dawned on Meacham a short time after Gov. Beckham took his seat in the executive chair that he had miscalculated somewhere. He discovered that the new Governor wasn't going to permit himself to be dictated to, any more than would have Wm. Goebel, had he not been carried away by an assassin's bullet. Finding this out, he was willing to make terms, but the Governor, as in the case of all the others seeking to act for him, wanted none of him in the administration of the government, and dismissed him. His conduct in the months that followed showed the extremes to which he was willing to go to even things up, an instance of it being the charge of "crap shooting" preferred against the Governor's agent sent to investigate the alleged immoral conduct of an official of the Western Asylum who was his, Meacham's friend. This course he has closely followed up to the time of the meeting of the Executive Committee, called to determine as to holding a primary election. He hopes now if unable to secure a State Convention, and the confusion and trouble necessarily incident thereto, to confuse the minds of the Democrats of the State and stir dissension among them so as to make the nomination in the primary practically worthless, conceding as all do, of his friends and advisers here, that Gov. Beckham will, by either method, be the nominee of the party.

Two Years for Insulting a Woman.

MUNFORDVILLE, KY., Jan. 12.—In the Circuit Court here to-day, Pat Arburn, of near Horse Cave, this county, was convicted and sentenced to two years in the penitentiary for the offense of insulting and detaining Mrs. Henry Page, the wife of his neighbor, Henry Page, who is a farmer and Baptist preacher.

The offense was alleged to have been committed some months ago while Mr. Page was away from home preaching.

On account of the gravity of the charge and the good standing of Mr. Arburn, no one at the time gave credence to the story, but the proof in the trial evidently developed his guilt to the minds of the jury.

A Splendid Instructor.

The Graphic, of Madisonville, has the following to say of a former Ohio county gentleman:

Prof. J. B. Ferguson, who has been the teacher at Nebo for several years and who was formerly at Hanson for a long time, will soon move with his family to Flatwood, Tenn., where he will take charge of the school. He has a fine prospect, as the school is in a good locality with favorable surroundings.

Prof. Ferguson has been engaged in teaching for the past 27 years. During that time he has taught almost continually.

usually. He has been teaching in Hopkins county for about twenty years. There are but few better qualified teachers in this section of the country than is Prof. Ferguson. He has a splendid reputation as an instructor.

We have been personally acquainted with him ever since he came to Hopkins county. We know him well and do not hesitate to recommend him to any people. He is an honest, sober, moral, industrious, upright Christian gentleman. We so endorse him. His wife and children are well worthy the husband and father. We bespeak for Prof. Ferguson and family, the goodwill and patronage of the people among whom their lot is soon to be cast.

DUNDEE, KY.

(Special to THE HERALD.)

Jan. 12.—The high water, a few weeks ago, ruined lots of corn and caused good corn in this part of the country to advance, some selling at 40c and 45c per bushel. Many men are buying and putting hogs on their drowned corn.

Mr. Marion Martin lost a fine horse and a cow last week.

Mr. Sam Smith, aged 73 years, died here last Thursday evening of pneumonia.

Mr. J. C. Smith's little boy fell into the fire a few days ago and was so badly burned that he died last Friday night and was buried here Saturday.

The parents of the dear little boy have our sympathy in their misfortune.

Mr. Lum Gulley, who lived on Mr. John Graham's farm, died last Friday night.

Mr. Virge Renfrow, who has had a severe carbuncle on his neck for some time, is getting able to be out again.

Mr. H. C. Acton has sold a half interest in his store to Walter V. Midkiff and they will conduct a general store in the future. He has also sold his dwelling house to Mr. Midkiff, who has moved to same. Mr. Acton has purchased Mr. A. R. Renfrow's dwelling house and will move into it as soon as vacated by Mr. Renfrow, who will move to Narrows.

Mr. Wm. Hirsch and wife have moved to Narrows, where Mr. Hirsch will still work for Renfrow & Co., in the saddlery department.

On last Friday quite a number of families went East. Wm. Hirsch went to Narrows. Mr. Ed Jones to where Hirsch lived, and Tom P. Midkiff to where Jones lived, and J. W. Thomas to where Midkiff lived. All the moving was on a line due east and on the same day.

Ohio county must still have prosperity ahead in the future as well as in the past few years, according to the statements of good standing of the three Hartford banks.

An order for five hundred cars at $2,000 each has also been placed.

A Thousand Dollars Thrown Away.

Mr. W. B. Baker, of Plainville, Neb., writes: "My wife had lung trouble for over fifteen years. We tried a number of doctors and spent over a thousand dollars without any relief. She was very low and I lost all hope, when a friend suggested trying Foley's Honey and Tar, which I did; and thanks be to this great remedy, it saved her life. She is stronger and enjoys better health than she has ever known in ten years. We shall never be without Foley's Honey and Tar and would ask those afflicted to try it." For sale by Jas. H. Williams druggist.

A Woman Attacked by a Vicious Hog.

FORDSVILLE, KY., Jan. 10.—Mrs. C. A. Crowe, living near this place, was attacked by a vicious hog and narrowly escaped being killed. As it was, she received several bad cuts, one on the breast being severe. The hog attacked Mrs. Crowe in the yard some distance from the house. She was feeding a number of pigs at the time. The animal knocked her down and bit her in several places. Her screams attracted the attention of several members of her family, and after a hard tussle they managed to drive the hog away. Mrs. Crowe fainted from exhaustion after the desperate fight she made for her life.

Heads Should Never Ache.

A Good Recommendation.

"I have noticed that the sale on Chamberlain's Stomach & Liver Tablets is almost invariably to those who have once used them," says Mr. J. H. Weber, a prominent druggist of Cascade, Iowa. What better recommendation could any medicine have than for people to call for it when again in need of such a remedy? Try them when you feel dull after eating, when you have a bad taste in your mouth, feel bilious, have no appetite or when troubled with constipation, and you are certain to be delighted with the prompt relief which they afford.
